on whether the Omaha Public Power District (OPPD) Ft. Calhoun nuclear power plant should be granted an operating license by the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) opened here Monday.

Introductory statements by the three contending parties—OPPD, the AEC regulatory staff and Omaha's Citizens for Survival group - were followed by limited-appearance statements by two college students opposing the license.

Mary Carter, a geology stu-dent at the University of Nebraska at Omaha, said the plant is not adequately safeguarded against radiological accidents. The increase in anticipated power demands used by OPPD as a justification for the license is really based on the power industry's own advertising, she added.

"If OPPD continues to advertise and propagandize the people that we need vastly more electricity," said Miss Carter," the problem will become more complicated.

Dana College (Blair) biology student Dennis Nelson rejected the ARC's so-called threshold theory of determining safe maximum radiation levels. He asserted that research has s h o w n radiation - induced disease to increase proportionally with the radiation Dinsmore challenged the validity of two studies undertaken by OPPD on the effects of thermal effluence on river life. One, undertaken privately by OPPD, was initiated in 1971, five years after the decision to "go nuclear," Wilkins acknowledged.

The other, done in conjunction with 10 other public agencies, is being partially financed by OPPD.

The purpose of that line of cross-examination, Dinsmore told the three-man hearing board, was to establish that the 11-agency study "wasn't funded properly, that there weren't the proper contribu-tions made," to constitute compliance with requirements for an environmental impact statement.

The pre-operational sampling phase of the 11-agency study has been completed. Results will not be known until the post-operational phase is completed, after the plant has begun operation.

Hurdles Loom In Path Of Hiram Scott's Use

By MILAN WALL Star Staff Writer

Although the University of Nebraska has been encouraged by its first round of investigations on possible use of the former Hiram Scott College, the university still has several hurdles to jump before establishment of a program there becomes a reality.

And, not the least of those burdles, is the matter of attracting funds sufficient to operate a rural health education center or some other unique educational program at the site of the now-defunct Scottsbluff institution.

A report handed to members of the NU Board of Regents at a weekend meeting said. for example, that the annual operating expense for the education program in the first year would be $650,000 "with some minimal return from tuition payments."

It went on to say that the $650,000 figure might double or triple if all the programs suggested were developed over the first five years of operations.

While a rural health education program seemed to take top priority among the programs suggested, the report given the board by NU Executive Vice President Howard R. education center concept, cautioned that the university would have to insist that any sae funds appropriated for that purpose be considered "new" monies, not funds subtracted from current university operating expenses or from anticipated increases for current operations in Omaha and Lincoln.

Sparks' sentiment was echoed by NU-Lincoln Chancelior James Zumberge, who has hinted on several occasions that merger of the former University of Omaha into the state university has cut into the Lincoln campuses appropriations potential.

The Lincoln campuses' increase in the current year was less than the $840,000 first-year operating and start-up costs for a program at Hiram Scott.

Another of the problems to be solved is the one attached to the nine dormitory-dining hall buildings on the Hiram Scott campus.

The National Bank of Commerce, trustee for the bonds, has apparently told NU the facilities could be purchased at a foreclosure sale for a "small fraction" of the $4.3 million

At as little as five cents on the dollar, however, that cost would still top $200,000.

Also to be settled, presumably before programming potential can be nailed down, is whether the National Institutes of Health might invest in the project and how other states might be included in financing the programs.

NIH had indicated a "preliminary interest," university officials said, in a regional health education center concept, and Wyoming Gov. Stan Hathaway has expressed an interest in the rural health proposal.

Just how Wyoming and other states in the region might be involved in financing remains to be detailed.

Presumably, other states could enter into a tuition payment agreement similar to the ones Nebraska has for veterinary medical pro-

If other states are to be involved in financial support, the tasks ahead in Nebraska and other states will include convincing legislators in the several states that a program at Hiram Scott would be a sound investment.

How qualkly solutions to the various problems will develop remains to be seen. The NU Board of Regents asked for monthly reports on the matter.

If the goal becomes a program start at Hiram Scott in the 1973-74 fiscal year, the university will have about six months to finalize enough details to secure legislation before the 1973 Nebraska Legislature adjourns.

Spacemen Begin Scientific Quest

. . . Moon Landing Perfect

Two Apollo 17 explorers stepped onto a boulder-strewn moon valley Monday and Harrison H. Schmitt, the first scientist in space, called it "a geologist's paradise."

Schmitt and commander Eugene A. Cernan immediately began a scientific quest, using Schmitt's trained geologist's eye to seek missing links in lunar history. His experience is expected to produce the most meaningful lunar data yet on what may be man's last visit to the moon in the 20th century.

As Cernan planted his size 9 boot in the dusty soil, he remarked: "I'd like to dedicate the first step of Apollo 17 to all those who made it possible."

'It's Beautiful'

He was logged on the vailey floor at 6:05 p.m. CST, about four hours after he and Schmitt made a perfect landing in the valley. Schmitt followed him down the ladder five minutes later and exclaimed: "God, it's beautiful out here."

They immediately unloaded their moon car, activated it and after giving it a test drive, Cernan reported: "Challenger's baby is on the road."

"Don't run over me,'' Schmitt laughed.

An hour after they were on the surface, they activated a television camera which relayed to Mission Control spectacular color pictures of the stark beauty of Taurus-Littrow.

Old Glory Planted

Controlled by the ground, the camera focused on the two astronauts as they planted the American flag.

"This has got to be one of the most proud moments of my life, I guarantee you," space veteran Cernan said.

"I don't know how many of you know this," he added, "but this flag has flown in (Mission Control) since Apollo 11. We very proudly deploy it on the moon to stay for as long as it can in honor of all those people who have worked so hard to put us and ever crew here and to make the U.S. and mankind something different than it was." 'Oh Bury Me Not . . .'

They went about the business of exploring with great exuberance, with Cernan occasionally humming "dum de dum dum" and once singing "Oh bury me not on the lone prairie."

As Schmitt skipped off to implant scientific instruments some 300 feet from Challenger, he sang out "We're off to see the wizard."

Both had initial troubles walking on the slippery, glasslike dust and each suffered a

At the valley called Taurus-Littrow, they hope to find very young rocks and very ancient ones that might date back to the birth of the moon 4.6 billion years ago.

On alighting, Cernan glanced 4 around at the brilliant panorama of mountains, valleys, craters and rilles and remarked: "Oh, my golly. It's unbelievable out here. But is it ever bright in the sunlight."

After surveying Challenger, he reported: "We landed in a very shallow depression, like a dimer plate. That's why we're slightly tilted. I don't think there's any place around here where you wouldn't have one foot in a crater." Little Trouble

They had little trouble adapting themselves to their new environment, where the gravity pull is about one-sixth that of earth's and where temperatures range from 243 degrees above zero in sunlight to 257 degrees below zero in darkness and in shadow.

After the initial familiarization period they began their first task, assembling the $2 million battery-powered moon car which is to transport them more than 20 miles over the surface to explore mountains, valleys, rilles and craters.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

(Note: Today's column is by news analyst Kevin Phillips. Mr. Dobler's column will be resumed shortly.)

WASHINGTON - Taken as a whole. President Nixon's cabinet shuffle adds up to distinctly less than the sum of its parts. More was promised - the predictions were more grandiose - than actually took place.

Even so, and despite the scoffing of a cynical capital, the President has given his administration one of the most thorough-going shake-ups of any chief executive in memory. The problem lies in the perochialism of the changes. First, here are the dimensions of the upheaval:

Cabinet Secretary Turnover: Of the 11 cabinet officers, only six will be staying on as heads of departments. No president in memory has moved so boldly to discharge so many. And of the six staying in office, several face uncertain tenure ti.e., Attorney General Richard Kleindienst and probably Secretary of State William Rogers) and one has a new department to run: HEW Secretary turned Defense Secretary Elliot

Departmental Clean-Ups: Three departments with new secretaries are slated for major program personnel cutbacks and retooling. Elliot Richardson, the defense secretary-designate is a Massachusetts liberal who won't mind weeding out some excess generals, admirals and procurement arrangements. HEW Secretary designate Casper Weinberger - known as "Cap the Knife" when he was director of the Office of Management and Eudget - is charged with cutting back on the grandiose social programs and bleeding heart personnel empires of the Federal Health, Education and Welfare Complex. And HUD Secretary-designate James Lynn, a topflight Ohio lawyer, has been told to clean up the web of corrupt and unsuccessful Great Society housing subsidy and loan grograms enacted during

Since this adds up to an unprecedented cabinet turnover and a considerable White House determination to "shape up" a previously out-of-control federal establishment, why are the administration's actions being played down with so much talk of a "meaningless shuffle"? The reason for Washington cynicism, 1 think, is that the administration propagandized a more thorough reorganization than it actually produced.

From the President himself, we heard promises that new talent would be brought into the government, and that power was going to be shifted away from the White House and back to the cabinet. This has not occurred, and observers who sensed a White House power grab have been substantially justified.

New Blood: Minimal infusion of new talent is one of the major shortcomings of the cabinet upheaved Richardson, Weinberger and Lynn, for example, are all senior officials changing to other jobs. Neither Richardson nor Lynn was reportedly anxious to shift, but orders from the White House high command are just that, orders. As for the outsiders entering the cabinet, the two most notable - Labor Secretarydesignate Peter Brennan and Commerce Secretary-designate Frederick Dent - are men picked to fill "southern" and "bluecollar" political seats, and they are not likely to have much "insider" influence. Post-election emphasis has been on shifting proven loyalists rather than on recruiting intellectual talent. In turn, talent tends to shun the administration.

Cabinet Power: There are just too few powerful people in the cabinet who can exercise important independent power. Treasury Secretary George Shultz, who enjoys a close personnal relationship with the President, is probably the only truly influential cabinet officer. The others are either just-picked or just-promoted fledglings (like Weimberger, Lynn, Dent, Brennan, etc.) or holdover officials of anticipated short tenure or limited clout (Kleindienst, Rogers, Agriculture Secretary Butz, Interior Secretary Morton, etc.). Far fom being picked as a body to wield new power, they were selected with the idea of yielding even more policy-making power to the White House.

Some good things may come of this reorganization, reshuffland or whatever. But even to many Republicans and conservatives who wish the administration well, it smacks too much of a power grab.

don't "communicate" enough. You've heard their song before: Communication leads to understanding and understanding leads to acceptance and love, and love leads us to international peace and that's when lights go on again, all over the world, trala. Or something like that.

They may even be right. Trouble is, we'll never find out because Henry Kissinger can be in only three places at once and the rest of us can't afford the toll charges.

Maybe word hasn't filtered down to the social planners yet, but the way the telephone company is raising rates, talk is no longer cheap. Not over an AT&T wire, anyway.

And even those of us who find our telephone bills a monthly mystery can figure out that's a total boost of $395 million.

What it boils down to is that a lot of us are going to think twice before we push the longdistance button from now on. And never mind that jazz about how calling home for a cozy chat is almost as good as being there for a visit.

At these prices Granny will be lucky to get a three-manute quickie during "cheapie time" on Christmas morning.

Crackdowns Ordered

State and local authorities have announced in the past few days that they will crack down on two existing abuses.

We applaud the decision of the state Department of Motor Vehicles to catch up with those auto inspection station operators who are not living up to the spirit of Nebraska's motor vehicle inspection program. The department said it will crack down not only on the "sticker-slappers," who issue an automobile inspection sticker regardless of obvious defects, but also the mechanic who claims certain parts need to be replaced when they are actually in good condition. Abuses of both types are common.

The inspection program was designed to keep unsafe vehicles off the road and thus cut down on the possibility of accidents. It would be hard enough to evaluate the success of the program under ideal conditions, but there really is no hope at all for the program to work if the spirit of the law is ignored and unsafe vehicles are passed through inspection. And, on the other hand, the state did not intend to line the pockets of mechanics by giving them license to make unneeded re-type of crackdown hat is commendable.

An effort to make a potentially beneficial

We are perplexed, however, by the Omaha and Lincoln Police Departments' interest in enforcing one interpretation of state gambling statutes which holds that playing pinball machines which award free games constitutes

Following Omaha's lead and after conferring with Lancaster County Attorney Paul Douglas, the Lincoln Police Department said last week that persons continuing to operate pinball machiness which award free games for high scores will be subject to arrest. Penalties for operators are a fine of not less than $300 or exceeding $500 or up to two years in the Nebraska Penal Complex.

Granting that there are many laws on the books that are not enforced, the police dependent still can't be faulted for enforcing a law, or an interpretation of a law. But the law is ridiculous. Pinball machines which award free games are not offensive to the public's health, safety or morals. The law-or interpretation of it-itself is offensive and should be changed. It is just another example of the unnecessary interference of government

Any time spent cracking down on pinball program work as it was intended is one machine operators is a waste.

Parties Switch Top Jobholders

Robert Dole is an articulate, attractive, highly partisan politician with an instinct for the opposition's jugular and those qualities should have made him a popular Republican National Chairman secure in his job.

The only problem is that Dole is also United States senator from Kansas and President Nixon wanted a party chief who could keep tabs on GOP affairs on a full-time basis. Nixon solved the problem Monday by replacing Dole with George Bush a former congressman from Texas who has been unsuccessful in two Senate races but who in a short time advanced from being an inexperienced new boy to a effective spokesman for America as ambassador to the United Nations.

Dole can now concentrate on his work in the Senate and and preparing for his 1974 re-election campaign while Bush can devote full time to party affairs. Hopefully Nixon can come up with a replacement for Bush who has the same amount of class and ability. But the President was right about one thing and that is that it is probably better that the party chairmanship is not a moonlighting

The Democras changed party chairmans over the weekend and the best that can be said of it is that time probably will heal the wounds.

New Chairman Robert Strauss kicked off his term by serving notice he will try to run the party organization as an independent, beholden to no faction and that he places a high premium on party loyalty - which also means loyalty to the 1972 presidential ticket during the campaign. He shouldn't be insulted however if people doubt that he can successfully carry out his good intentions.

There is a saying that when government deigns to distrust the people, then the armed man is a citizen and the disarmed man is a subject. It is also said that if the government cannot trust the people with arms, then can the people trust the government with the government?

Of course, not only rightwing totalitarians seek the disarming of the people, though Adolf Hitler once said, "It would be very foolish to allow the subject races to keep On the other arms hand, allied forces capture a Communist document in Dusseldorf, Germany, in 1919 which, among other things, urged Communists to "secure the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view to future confiscation, thus leaving the population defenseless."

This is, in essence, what Marcos is doing in the Philippines. When he has achieved his goal of a "gunless society, his soldiers and police, his bully boys of whatever breed, will then have the same edge over the people that the American hoodlum has over the average American citizen. "I got a gun and you ain't . .

Unfortunately, the Philippine people are not the only ones that have been disarmed, or are being disarmed, in order that they might more effeetively be subjugated. Our dear friends, the English, have long since disarmed the Irish people, leaving the decent helpless against extremists of either side, and to the whims of the British Army in their op-pressive occupation of a captive nation. Our own forefathers revolted against such benevolent British rule nearly two centuries ago-thank God!

And today, there are those who strive to disarm the American people Unfortunately for their political ambitions, however, the American people are not going to be so easily disarmed. Many of us can, and will, fight to keep our freedom . . . AND OUR GUNS!

Then, perhaps, will come another headline: "Many U.S. Soldiers Die In Attempting To Disarm Americans! "It can't happen here? Don't bet on it! JOHN W. ROCKEFELLER

Usually a padding in the heel of the shoe is very effective. It softens the surface of the shoe, and shifts weight off the heel and slightly forward.

Sometimes an injection of h y d rocortisone successfully relieves the trouble. Sometimes it doesn't. Sometimes ultrasound helps.

Sometimes not. If you can find a method that will keep the pressure off the sore place, that's an answer. If you can't, skillful surgical removal of the spur may be necessary. Frankly, I am in favor of

Lots of questions deal with whatever method happens to work for a person, and I do NOT care to insist arbitrarily simplest one that gets results and is to be preferred to surgery.

Here are letters from three readers who have found satisfaction with three quite different solutions:

From Green Bay, Wis.: "I taped a small amount of raw sheep wool on my heels and in a couple of months the trouble slowly disappeared and I haven"t had trouble since."

From St. Louis: "There are two kinds of inserts. The leather ones (which cost over $30) I could not wear because of the bulk - I needed larger shoes. Then I went to a podiatrist and he gave me plastic heel cups which could be worn in my dress shoes-Now I do not need even them. They cost $20 a pair.—F.G.

From Detroit: "A podiatrist X-rayed both feet and showed me the spur that had grown straight down. He recommended surgery but pointed out alternatives, such as shoe inserts which might or might not do the trick.

"I went to my medical doctor who gave me a shot of cortisone but used a guessing game with no X-rays. It taught me a lesson; for foot troubles, go to a podiatrist.

"I had foot surgery which was satisfactory, and I was never off my feet. I did experience discomfort for the first few weeks, like swelling, but as with every operation the healing process must follow. My foot was not put in a cast nor was I laid up for weeks.—Mrs. K.C."

For mild cases, sometimes a homemade pad of one sort or another, with a hole cut in the middle, is sufficient. But sometimes such simple things won't work, and it is time to get skilled help.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a man has the same type of blood a baby has, does that positively prove he is the father? Is there any other positive test?—M.D.

No to both. There are millions of men, and millions of babies, but only a few blood types. So when a baby is born with a certain blood type, obviously there are millions of men with the same type of blood.

Anyway, a baby's blood type depends on the interaction of the father's blood and the mother's, and need not be the same as either.

No test has been devised to prove a man is the father of a child. However, blood typing can prove in certain cases that he is not the father.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I just went to the hospital as an outpatient for an EKG. Will this tell me if I ever had a mild heart attack, even if it was about six years ago? I have heard both that it does and it does not, and don't know which to believe.—M.K.V.

> Unless the city suffers in last-minute federal recalculation of revenue-sharing grants, Pittsburgh will receive a total $20.3 million from Washington for 1972 and 1973; since 1972 is so nearly over. Flaherty said in a telephone interview, he can apply both grants to calendar 1973, but in subsequent years he expects Pittsburgh's grant to be more like $11 million.

> Of the proposed $122 million city operating budget for 1973, revenue-sharing funds will provide $14.5 million; of a

allocated roughly one-third of it - or any city in like Republican governors not to his city's federal grant to capital expenditures; he said most of that $5.8 million will go for lighting up city streets with mercury vapor lamps, as an anti-crime measure, and the rest for new recreation

The other two-thirds of the federal grant will be allocated to the public safety department: this $14.5 million makes up roughly two-fifths of a public safety budget of $36 million. Flaherty said the money would be devoted primarily to increased firemen's and policemen's salaries.

Over-all, Pittsburgh's proposed operating budget is $10.3 million higher than the $111.6 million 1972 budget. But in announcing the increases. Flaherty also said that the city was ending 1972 with a $13.5million surplus, although it had reduced the real estate tax a year ago. This surplus enabled him to announce further that was eliminating Pittsburgh's one per cent tax on earned income and prorelief.

Here are some of the questions raised by this example: -If Pittsburgh cut real estate taxes last year, still proposed $61.8 million capital ended the year with a $13spending budget, revenue - million surplus, and is killing sharing will provide $5.8 its carned-income tax in 1973, circumstance — to receive $11 million annually in federal revenue-sharing?

-If President Nixon is going to have to cut deeply into federal spending to hold down inflation — for instance, by refusing to allocate to the states the sums Congress authorized for cleaning up water pollution — can't a case be made that the federal government needs the revenuesharing money ($5.8 billion annually at the present rate) more than some states and municipalities?

-And even though many believe that massive federal programs don't work and ought to give way to local control and purposes, is it good public policy for the federal government to reduce expenditures for general social purposes (if it does) so that Pittsburgh and other cities can increase the salaries of public equitably than is now the employee and civil servants?

None of this is meant to argue that local tax relief is necessarily a bad thing, or that belief that state and local firemen or policemen in most viding some other forms of tax cities ought not to be better paid: nor is it intended to defend federal as against local programs. The question is how best to spend taxpayers' money revenue-sharing funds are tax dollars, toe for what purposes, at what against "abuse" of the experilevel, under what control?

Flaherty argues, for example, that his street-lighting program, which he hopes to put quickly into effect, could not be completed until 1976 or later if he had to use bond issues to finance it. If revenuesharing continues, he would try to use a substantial part of it in each succeeding year for some similar long-term investment.

The graduated federal income tax, from which revenuesharing money primarily comes, is a fairer means of raising government revenues, moreover, than are local property taxes and such devices as the Pittsburgh earned-income tax. State and local taxation often bears down heavily on the working class, the elderly and other hard-up groups. Thus, revenue-sharing may levy the cost of local government somewhat more

Many who supported the revenue-sharing concept, however, did so in the primary government might more effectively use federal money to deal with education, poverty, crime and the like, than the federal bureaucracy has been able to do. No doubt that was the test Agnew had in mind when he warned the governors ment.

The somewhat callous practice of merely sending a card and signature is gently criticized in Russell Askue's classic poem:

"At Christmastime the cards in a long assembly line. No mark to show the one from you except an inky serawl available at local post offices Your signaure across the early in 1973, and also at the months and miles - that is

"It makes me wonder if you think your autograph so dear. That I should be content to gaze upon it once a year. Such formal greetings merely tell me that you still exist. How I would cherish on the margin just a line or two. To show that with your Christmas card I get a bit of you."

Thousands of travel-minded retirees deplored the demise of the Golden Eagle Passport in 1970. This passport, sold at a nominal price by the US Departments of Agriculture and Interior, offered open admission to all national parks and federal recreation areas.

CARMICHAEL

Just when the passport had become enormously popular, Uncle Sam mysteriously discontinued it.

But thanks to a flood of protests, Congress has $n \circ w$ reinstated this popular program. The 1973 Golden Eagle Passports will go on sale January 1, 1973, and the price will be 10 dollars.

Also available will be a Golden Age Passport, given free to those 62 years of age and over, which will entitle holders to 50% discounts on arrive, all bright and gay and special user-recreation fees, fine. Delivered by the postman such as those for campgrounds in federal park areas.

Both passports will be entrance gates to most natonal park and federal recreation areas.

Most people who retire cease us ng their capacity for learning new tricks. But a few have the gumption to launch new avocations which serve mankind and open new doors of personal satisfaction. For example:

"My husband and I both retired from Western Electric in 1969," writes Mrs. Hazel Johnson of Indianapolis, "and tock a s.x-month trip around the world by freighter.

"When we returned I wanted something new and constructive to do. I had long been fascinated by Brail'e $\stackrel{\smile}{-}$ even though there's nothing wrong with my eyes. So I enrolled for a course on transcribing Braille and a year later was certified as a Braille Transcriber by the Library of Congress. Today I work at transcribing lessons for a school for the blind here, and I'm transcribing a book to be used by blind people. I feel rich satisfaction knowing I am helping those not blessed with s.ght." Bravo.

Customs Agents Halt Search For Himalayan Bear

Redding, Calif. (UPI) - U.S. Customs agents abandoned the search for a black, shaggy Himalayan bear missing in the snow - covered mountains of northern California — the in-nocent victim of a $625,000 hashish smuggling plot.

The five-foot-long, 30-inch cage in which the 250-pound. nocturnal bear was shipped to the United States from Nepal was found by agents Wednesday with an estimated 60 pounds of hashish stashed inside, Another cage, also laden with hashish concealed in false panels, was found Sunday. The bear it contained was shot by a hunter. Authorities estimated

Refugees Flown In From Cuba

clapping their hands and shouting "muchas gracias," 85 Cuban refugees landed in Miami Monday aboard the first "freedom flight" since the Castro government suspended the program last May

"I've waited five years to join my relatives," one elderly woman said in Spanish as the refugees filed off the Eastern Air Lines prop jet which carried them on the 45-minute flight from Veradero, a resort, city 70 miles east of Hay ana

The group included 33 men, 47 women and five children. Most of the refugees were more than 50 years old, and three elderly passengers left the plane in wheel chairs.

The US State Department said the flight was the first of 40 which will operate on a daily basis for five days each week for the next eight

Cuba had halted the flights May 12, saying not enough people were on the waiting list. Since then the government has said that some 3.200 persons have requested to make the

The flights were a regular fixture from 1965 until August 1971, and then were continued on an irregular basis until May. More than 279,000 Cubans have taken the flights.

"I have five children here in Miami," said Victor Modesto Garcias, 84, from Mantanzas Province. "I'll live with them here," he added, after being assisted off the piane.

The refugees were taken to Freedom House, a U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare facility which processes arriving refugees.

Most of the Cubans were to be reunited with friends and relatives in the Miami area, a Cuban Refugee Center spokesman said, but some would be resettled as far away as Chicago and New York.

Trade Surplus With U.S. Is Japan Target

Tokyo (A) - Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka, facing strong opposition after parliamentary elections, declared on Monday his first consideration next year will be cutting the huge trade surplus with the United

And domestically, he said he will press ahead with plans to remodel Japan when his next Cabinet is formed, probably Dec. 26.

Tanaka spoke at a televised news conference after his Liberal-Democratic Party wound up Sunday's election with 271 of the 491 seats in the House of Representatives. a loss of 26.

Tanaka said the voters had indicated his party should reflect on its activities. He promised to listen to opposition views before presenting his budget for the next fiscal

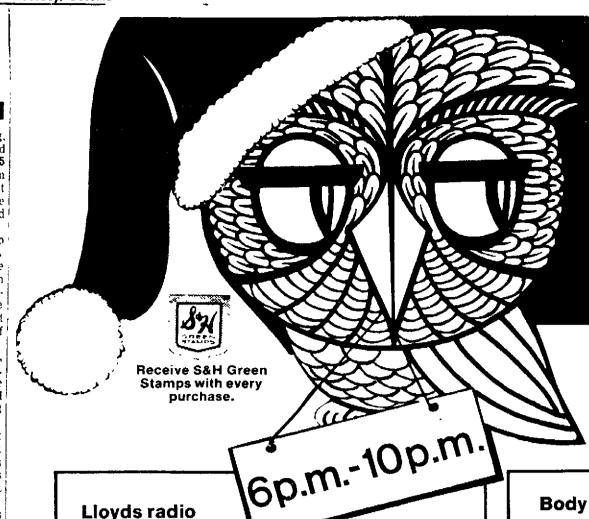

But he emphasized that an important part of the budget would be his plan for remodeling Japan by resettling millions of people and scores of major industries in less, populated areas. The opposition parties say the plan was drawn to serve big business interests and merely will spread pollution.

Top priority internationally will be efforts to shave Japan's growing trade surplus that has aroused the ire of other nations, especially the United States, Tanaka said.

Emphasis also will go to reforming Japan's educational system, reducing taxes and obtaining the people's understanding for defense plans, he conpuildap

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a | tors recommend most than any physician or dentist can pre-scribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain? You see, Anacin contains other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be re-lieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset. When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the You see, Anacin contains tablet a doctor might give you more of the pain reliever doc- in his own office. Feed Grain Plan To Up Corn, Bean Acreage, Cut Subsidies

Monday announced a 1973 feed grain program designed to step up corn and soybean acreage to meet rising U.S. and world needs while slashing subsidy payments to growers about

The move was part of a series of farm program changes which experts believe will cut total subsidies under three major commodity programs in 1973 to about $2.7 billion, down a fourth from this year's $3.6 billion.

The 1973 "set aside" acreage control program for hvestock feed grains (corn sorghum and barley) will account for most separate acreage retirement of the cut in subsidy payments.

The council also turned down the request by developer Jerald Lilja to delay a public hearing on his application for a massive zoning change in south Lincoln.

Lilja is requesting a zoning change from B Two-Family to D Multiple on property between Sumner and South, from 17th to 20th.

Less than two weeks to go, and Christmas is all around us. It is in the sound of the bells ringing on every corner, the sight of the children eyeing the packages under the tree, and in the aroma of all the baked goods being created in every kitchen across the land.

Baking is practically synonymous with Christmas time - there are cookies and candies, pies and fruitcakes. All of those tasty goodies are made with one single thought in mind - for pleasing the palates of not only the members of the immediate family, but also all of the guests who drop in during the holidays.

However, it often is difficult and too timeconsuming to bake an ample variety of treats for holiday guests. With that thought in mind, Mrs. Harold Sattler of Lincoln Heights was hostess for an annual cookie party on Friday afternoon, Dec. 8.

You see, those fortunate friends and neighbors of Mrs. Sattler each year are instructed to bring a few different varieties of their baked goods — and each guest then has the opportunity to exchange Christmas

DEAR ABBY You had a letter in your column from a woman who had a pet cat, and also a cat-hating boyfriend She always kept the cat out of sight when her botfriend came over, knowing how much he hated cats

Once he came over unexpectedly and was confronted by the cat and much to the woman's surprise, the cat jumped on his lap and purred and she could not understand her and the cat

Your answer leads me to DEAR IN: I'd try to believe you don't know much about cats. Having had at least one house cat for the last 50 vears I know that all house cats have one thing in common They know who likes them and who doesn't

> The cat is not fooled. I have seen my cat march into a room full of people and select the one "cat-hater" - jump into his lap, and purr, etc The reason is because he KNOWS that person hates cats

> Anyone who knows cats will tell you cats play this little game all the time But they are NEVER fooled

Watershed Lake Problems Reviewed By Dr. Hammer

By DICK HOLMAN

Star Staff Writer The manmade lakes surrounding Lincoln in the Salt Valley watershed will probably never be suitable for swimming, water skiing or any recreation involving body contact with the water, according to Dr. Mark J. Hammer.

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln civil engineering professor told the Lincoln Bluestem Group of the Sierra Club Monday evening how the process of eutrophication upsets the balance of lake ecosystems,

Dr. Hammer and a UNL zcology professor, Dr. Gary Hergenrader, have been studying the effects of eutrophication - rapid aging because of oxygen loss and heavy algae growth - in five lakes surrounding Lincoln.

Dr. Hammer distinguished that process from a geologist's point of view (the filling of lake) and a limnologist's (excessive growth of algae). He said his basic concern is with water quality and secondarily with recreation.

He decribed reservoirs as two types — turbid, or muddy and murky, and clear. A good example of a turbid reservoir, he said, is Holmes Lake i: Lincoln. But he said it is "much better brown than lush green and odorous" because of the family recreation it can provide.

"Our only hope" in controlling lake pollutants, he said.

Toyota, Nissan Plan Expansion In Australia

OThe New Hork Times

Sydney, Australia - Two major Japanese automobile makers, Toyota and Nissan, announced plans Monday for a $715 million expansion in their Australian enterprises The Nussan Motor Company

Ltd, maker of Datsun cars and trucks, outlined a $40 million enlargement of its manufacturing and assembling operations in Melbourne.

Toyota, a newcomer in the Australian manufacturing industry, will put $31.5 million into an assembly plant, also in Melbourne, as part of a $126.3 million overseas investment program in Australia, the Philippines, Brazil and Peru.

Both Japanese companies plan to produce cars in Melbourne with 85% Australian components.

is to heed what "nature's telling us" when lakes overrun > with algae. The major pollutants hurting lakes, Dr. Hammer said, are nitrogen and phosphorus, and they must be controlled through diversification of waste water, advanced waste treatment and inhibiting light protection - sunlight penetration promoting growth.

Left unchecked, he said, man-made lakes will develop green water, coarse fish species, bottom muds rich in nitrogen and phosphorous, floating mats of algae and

Sierra Club members attending the monthly meeting also heard Raymond Kubie, assistant area conservationist with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service explain planning and construction of watershed projects for erosion, flood control and recreation.

Kubie presented an iilustrated program showing results of flooding and substantial reasons for watershed projects in southeast Nebraska provided by Public Law 566.

"Man is either in conflict with nature" and he abuses it, or he uses good land and water management, Kubie said, indicating few instances in the middle.

Midget Football Response

Turning today's space over to Midget Football interests responding to a father's labeling practice sessions of his son's team as being "like a Marine boot camp:"

Coaches John Sheaf and Mike Fisher of the Elks team in the Class D League, which apparently was the team referred to, write, "We contacted Mr. Lodwig (the father) and were informed that he had been quoted correctly but not in entirety.

"He told us that in the letter he stated the reason they resembled Marine boot camp is the organization of the program, not the tyrannical regimentation you led your readers

"In the best interest of the program and journalism, contact the boys involved. Isn't first hand and recent information the best? Secondly, you stated Midget footballers should play because they enjoy playing and not for the recognition. We agree that the enjoyment is extremely important, but acknowledgment of one's accomplishments is not a unique desire if someone is proud of what they do.

"Next week, write your column without a byline, after all, recognition isn't really important if you are proud of your work or not."

John and Mike - We think that had you been able to divorce yourselves personally from the situation, you would have seen that our comments were not an indictment of Midget Football, nor a blanket indictment of youth programs. Our comments were intended as a blanket indictment of parents, who try to use their youngsters' achievements in athletics as a personal ego-booster. Most people, who discussed those comments with us, took them in that vein. As an example of how overzealous some parents can be, a few years ago, a father of a pitcher in the American Legion's Midget Baseball program would call the newspaper after each game in which his son pitched to find out what we were going to write about that son. On a night when the son pitched a no-hitter, the father called and advised us, "I'd appreciate it if you'd run his picture and give him a big story because it means a lot to me.

From The Father

Coming back with another explanation is the father, Jerry Lodwig of 2801 No. 57th, who charges, "I did not intend the letter to be a letter to the editor, but what I thought a sportswriter might find an interesting story. The only criticism I had was the failure of the Star to carry the scores of the class C and D teams while reporting on the class A and B teams

"My complaint is that you took one statement from this complimentary letter and wrote a damaging paragraph on it. I admit the statement was a general one. You stated in the article that you were lost by the statement. This being so, you had no reason to fill your column with your interpretation of the statement without contacting me to see

"You evidently went through a different Marine boot camp than I. My reference to boot camp pertained to the discipline, efficiency and teamwork which prevailed at the practice sessions. You use the word regimentation. I made no reference to regimentation in my letter.'

Mr. Lodwig - We referred to your letter as a typical one from doting parents and that it was. We recall at least three phone calls during the fall regarding the carrying of scores on the Class C and D games and in each case explained very carefully the procedure to follow to accomplish that desired goal but the procedure obviously was never followed. As to what the term Marine boot camp connotes, we'll leave that up to the minds of our readers, but after discussing the situation personally with the two coaches involved, we think you used a very poor choice of words.

No Boot Camp?

Eldon Wooters of 853 So 45th writes to defend the two midget football coaches. Says Wooters: "I personally know the two "D" team coaches whom I feel you maligned in your column They are "great guys" who have donated 80 hours to Midget Football this year. I am certain that these men would gladly supply you a team roster if you would care to check with their boys in reference to your implied mistreatment and harrassment

"I believe the Midget Football Program in Lincoln is good. While I agree that over 125 boys, operating in small units, under control, probably resembles a boot camp. I can assure you that we do make an honest effort to teach football, hard work, discipline, fair play, sportsmanship and a winning attitude

"When are boys to learn that life owes them nothing, that rewards are earned, not guaranteed and that maybe it's better to strive for the best than to expect the best to regress to a lower level of effort

"If these ideas are wrong, then I have coached seven years with a deluded sense of values, or maybe I'm just old fashioned We have never told our boys that they had to win, but we certainly expect them to try.'

Eldon - It was not I, who referred to the practice sessions as a boot camp. Since you have an unlisted phone number and since despite your having been in the city for seven years, you are not listed in the City Directory, we were unable to contact you, but it's still our contention, however, that a midget football field is not the place for a 9, 10 or 11-year-old boy to be taught the hard facts of life as you outline them.

... Teammate Glover Finishes Second In Voting

New York (UPI) - Johny Rodgers, the super-charged battery that sparked Nebraska's powerful offense Monday was named both the United Press Internationals Player and Back of The Year for the 1972 college football season.

The dual award came only one week after Rodgers, the greatest all-purpose offensive player in college football history, was named winner of the 1972 Heisman

Rodgers, who will close out his varsity career when Nebraska meets Notre Dame on New Year's Night in the Orange Bowl, scored 17 touchdowns for the ninth ranked Cornhuskers this season. Eight of the TDs came on pass receptions, seven by rushing ballots cast by sportswriters and broadcasters across the country in the voting for Player of the Year, easily beating out teammate Rich Glover for the honor.

Glover, who received 45 votes, played at middle guard and was the bulwark of the Nebraska defense which ranked fourth in the nation overall and fourth in points allowed.

Halfback Greg Pruitt of Oklahoma, who finished second to Rodgers in the Heisman balloting, was third with 32 votes. Pruitt also was runner-up for the Back of The Year award, gaining 77 votes compared to 90 for Rodgers.

Brad Van Pelt, the all-American safety for Michigan State, wound up fourth with with 31 ballots for Back of The Year.

Rodgers, a 5-foot-9, 173-pound senior, was employed as a rusher, pass receiver and runback specialist by coach Bob Devaney. In leading the Cornhuskers to an 8-2-1 record this year, Rodgers gained a total of 2,011 vards in the all-purpose category. He rushed for 267 yards, caught 55 passes for 942 yards, averaged 15.8 yards per punt return, 16.7 yards for each kickoff return and scored a total of 102 points.

Rodgers' three year all-purpose offensive totals rank as the best ever compiled by a major college player. He gained 5.586 yards, an average of 164.3 a game, during his varsity career and scored 45 touchdowns His greatness can be attested by the fact he scored one touchdown for every nane times

In their traditional Nebraska-Oklahoma Thanksgiving Day clash, the Sooners managed to hold Rodgers in check and Bud Wilkinson, a former Oklahoma coach and now an announcer on the weekly college football telecasts, was led to remark, "This is the first time I've seen Rodgers in action that he hasn't busted the game open with

Quarterbacks Terry Davis of Alabama (7), Tony Adams of Utah State (3) and Bert Jones of Louisiana State (2) finished fifth, sixth and seventh, respectively in the Player of The Year balloting while Davis (12). Adams (8), Jones (6) John Hufnagel of Penn State (4) and Howard Stevens of Louisville (3) received votes for Back of

Devaney Enthused On Return To Work

By HAL BROWN Star Sports Editor

Bob Devaney said he was enthused about getting back to work on the football practice field Monday, but hastily added that the weatherman could do a lot to make him even more enthusiastic about the chore of getting ready to play Notre Dame in the Orange

The weather as the Huskers began their Orange Bowl preparations was a far cry from what they'll find in Miami when they arrive Christmas Eve for the final week of preparations, but Devaney said he was willing to settle for much less than Miami-type conditions in the next two weeks.

"If it would just get up to about 30 degrees. I'd be happy." the Nebraska head coach, who is preparing his Huskers for his final game as their boss, offered as a light snow

"This is the worst fa'll we've had since I've been here as far as the weather has been concerned," he added, thinking back over his 11 years at the Husker helm. "We had only about two decent days in November.'

Devaney said if the weather got any worse, he would think fieldhouse.

The units alternated Monday between the cozy fieldhouse and the cold Memorial Stadium AstroTurf. Devaney said the workouts for the next two weeks would be held to hour and 20 minutes

A squad of about 80 was on hand for the Monday session with those same players making the Miami trip on Dec. 24. Devaney had hoped to leave for Florida a day eartier, but a plane could not be secured on Dec. 23.

The Huskers' two major award-winning stars, Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers and Outland Trophy winner Rich Glover, will miss workouts Wednesday and Thursday to attend Heisman ceremonies in New York City.

Devancy, who is not accompanying his stars to New York, said he hoped to have the two back by Friday's

Rodgers Anticipating Additional Pressure

. . . HUSKER REACTS TO UPI HONOR

By United Press International Johnny Rodgers of Nebraska said Menday "The pressure will really be on me now" when informed he had been tabbed as United Press International's player and back of the year

The pressure, according to Rodgers, will be on during the last performance of his collegiate career when the Cornhuskers face Notre Dame in the Orange Bowl.

"This honor is really putting a lot of pressure on me to show I really deserve it and all the rest of them," he said. "And it will be the last chance I will have to show it "

As to the UPI awards themselves. Rodgers termed them "great honors which will go along with all the others

However, he said, while the coming New Year's Day clash will be the last of his collegiate career, he hopes it won't be the last on the field.

Professional football, he said is one thing he's counting on and will attack with the same attitude which has been present in college.

As to his chances in professional football, Nebraska coach Bob Devaney said Rodgers wouldn't have any trouble making the adjust-

"He won't flunk out in probail." Devaney said. "He's a great athlete.'

'I'm sure he wants to play pro football and I'm also sure he'll be very good," the coach Rodgers, in turn, said he and clines, most-active Gulf Oll 26 ¼, Omaha (A) - Fat cattle prices advanced here Monday in a neat take-off of the legendary cow that jumped over the moon.

Urgent spot demand, backed by sharp advances late last week in carcass beef prices, ran into continued moderate to light area marketings. Fed steers shot mostly 150 higher and heifers 1 50-2 00 advanced in very active bargaining. The trend was measured against last midweek, the latest volume test of the market

The demand dipped on into the recently dull cow market, pulling prices up 50 cents to a dollar Bulls traded on a furm basis and a few fleshy feeder steers shot 100-150 higher.

The hog market ran out of Dec OATS

The hog market ran out of steam as marketings in the may area increased over the weekend and on Monday Pork Jan Mark

What Is Done When You Meet Naked General?

Saigon (A) - What does an Air Force enlisted man do when he meets a naked general?

He salutes. An order issued recently by Maj. Paul M. Boseman, operations officer of the 377th Security Police Squadron at Tan Son Nhut Airbase, says in part: "Salute when you recognize an officer even though you both, officer and noncommissioned officer, are nude. An Air Force spokesman said this was "intended to emphasize the importance of saluting officers when recognized, whether in our out of uniform. He said he did not know under what circumstances officers and enlisted personnel might encounter each other in the nude.

The order was attached to a photograph of Brig. Gen. Ralph Holland, new vice commander of the 7th Air Force.

The general is in full uniform.
